APPEAL TO WORKMEN.

"Mechanic" Calls Upon Them to Support J. S. Cunningham.

To the Editor of the Telegram:

Will you allow me space in your valuable paper to make a suggestion to the working men of the state—one that every man ought to be interested in—and that is that the working men should look after their own interest and not stand back and depend upon others to act for them. The way for the working men to advance their cause is to see that delegates to the state convention are elected who will vote only for candidates who favor the cause of labor.

Now, Mr. Editor, there are good men by the score, but if the working men of North Carolina want to be thoroughly represented let them attend the primaries and elect delegates who will vote for that sterling democrat who has ever been the working man's friend, Col. John S. Cunningham of Person county, for governor. Rally to Cunningham, working men; he has always been for you and with you.

Mechanic.

Not a Matter of Merchandise.

A man was walking with his little boy at the close of day, and in passing the cottage of a German laborer the boys attention was attracted by a dog.

It was not a King Charles, nor a black-and-tan, but a common cur. Still the boy took a fancy to him, and wanted "pa" to buy him.

"I can't sell that dog," said the German.

"Look here," said the man, "that is a poor dog, anyway, but as my boy wants him I will give you $5 for him."

"Yaa's," said the German, "I know he is a very poor dog, and he ain't wor't almost nottin', but dere ish von little ding mit dat dog vot I can't sell—I can't sell the vag of his tail ven I come home at night."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

ON THE BRINK OF A VOLCANO.

MILITIA WAITING FOR THE WORD TO SAIL INTO EACH OTHER.

Opposing Generals Make Up a Truce to Wait the Court, Then the Fighting Will Begin.

Frankfort, March 14—In order to prevent a fight between Beckham and Taylor's armies of militia, Castleman and Collier, respectively democratic and republican adjutant generals, signed a truce until the state court of appeals acts. It is agreed that if the suit seats Beckham, the moment the court makes the decision the truce ends and Beckham will attempt to unseat Taylor by force, while Collier's militia will resist the attempt, as Taylor does not recognize the state court, but will carry the case to the United States Supreme court.

The clash is sure to come when the court of appeals act. Both Castleman and Collier say they mean business. It is learned that warrants have been actually issued for thirty of the most prominent republicans in Kentucky, also four Brown democrats, charging them as accessories before the fact in Goebel's death.

STATE EXAMINATION

To Be Held for Life Certificates the Second Thursday in July.

Superintendent Mebane last night mailed the following letter to county superintendents:

You will please inform the teachers of your county, through the county newspaper or otherwise, that the next annual examination for life certificates will be held at the court house on the second Thursday in July.

Questions have been prepared by the state board of examiners upon the following subjects, to wit: Arithmetic, algebra, geography, physical geography, physiology, history, civil government, school law, English grammar, English literature, elementary botany, elementary psychology, and elementary physics.

These questions will be forwarded in due time to you, as they are now in the hands of the state printer.

You will see under section 75 of school law, that each applicant must pay in advance to you, the county superintendent of schools, the sum of five dollars, which must be reported to the county board of school directors and paid into the general school fund of the county.

This letter is written to you because numerous enquiries are coming to this office from young teachers who are interested; it is, therefore, well to inform the general public of your county, upon this subject at this time.

Joshua Simpkins Tonight.

The sensational rural comedy drama, "Joshua Simpkins," will be produced at the academy of music tonight. The play contains an interesting and intelligible plot, but it is not allowed to interfere with the fun, which is said to be in abundance. During the run of the play some startling scenes and situations are seen, principal of which may be said to be the country saw mill, in the third act, shown in complete operation cutting up real timber. The saw used is the genuine article, same as used in large country saw mills. Two excellent bands and a fine orchestra accompany this attraction. The bands paraded at noon, one of them being dressed up as countrymen.

MET HERE LAST NIGHT.

Committee to Arrange Place of Meeting of Teachers' Assembly.

The next meeting of the Teachers' Assembly will, it is safe to say, be held at Morehead City, though the decision of the committee has not yet been officially announced. The subcommittee appointed to act for the executive committee in the matter of selecting the place for the next session, met at the McAdoo House in this city last night. This committee is composed of D. Matt Thompson, president, C. B. Mebane, secretary, and Professors J. Y. Joyner and W. T. Whitsett.

The program for the coming meeting will be the handsomest thing of the kind perhaps ever issued in the state The cover is a new design in a new grade of work of the "art preservative" executed by Wright, in Philadelphia. Mr. Mebane had a sample of the cover along with him when he left the city this morning. The program will be elaborate and will contain a limited number of choice advertisements.

New Trial Granted

Among the decisions handed down in the supreme court yesterday was the order for a new trial in the case from this city of Jordan and Noble vs. Furnace Co. This case was carried to the supreme court on appeal by defendants. The decision, therefore, is in the nature of a victory for them.

COL. BOYD READY TO HELP.

SAYS THE GOVERNMENT SHOULD MAKE AN APPROPRIATION.

The Guilford Battle Ground Should be as Much an Object of Care as Any.

The Editor of the Telegram:

Please publish the following letter, which explains itself. Col. Boyd's liberality towards and warm interest in all in this community. But the all important point remains to be seen, towit: Can the present republican congress be induced to act in this matter and thereby enable Senator Pritchard and Colonel Boyd to deliver the goods. Yours truly,

Jos. M. Morehead.

March 14, 1900.

Department of Justice, Washington, D. C., March 13th, 1900.

Jos. M. Morehead, Esq., Greensboro, North Carolina.

Friend Morehead:—I have yours of the 8th instant, relative to an appropriation for the Guilford Battle Ground. There is nothing that would give me greater pleasure than to be instrumental in futhering the improvement of the Battle Ground park. I have always looked upon the recovery of this noted battle field as a matter which involved the highest patriotism. Unfortunately, some few people have been left to bear the brunt of all that has been done. The state legislature has contented itself by giving a very small appropriation and the congress of the United States, when we consider the circumstances, has really done nothing. There is no more reason why the Guilford Court House Battle Ground should be overlooked in marking and preserving the historic places made sacred by the battles of the Revolution than any others of the number that have been taken care of by the government should be neglected. The truth is that the congress of the United States ought to make an appropriation for the Battle Ground property, make a public park of it, and erect suitable monuments and other testimonials to the heroism and sacrifices of the men who fought there. I should think that with a movement altogether, our congressional delegation ought to be able to secure some substantial aid in futhering the purposes for which the Battle Ground Company was organized. I shall take the very greatest pleasure in furthering a proposition to this end in every possible way I can. Senator Pritchard has been out of Washington for a few days and I have not had an opportunity to see him since the receipt of your letter; but on his return I shall confer with him about this matter and I feel that I can assure you that he will not be wanting in zeal for your measure.

Trusting that you are in good health, I am, with best wishes,

Very truly yours, Jas. E. Boyd.

WAITING FOR IMPORTANT NEWS

FOUR HOURS SHOULD BRING IMPORTANT NEWS FROM ROBERTS

Occupation of Free State Capital Expected Today—Soldiers Want Republics Extinguished.

London, March 14—Four hours should bring important dispatches from Lord Roberts. No word has come from him from the vicinity of Bloemfontein today although sharp fighting is believed to have taken place near there since the commander-in-chief was last heard from.

The occupation of the Free State capital is confidently expected to take place today.

A dispatch from Bloemfontein says that in view of the military situation the seat of government may be removed to Kronstadt.

The soldiers of Robert's army hailed with joy Salisbury's refusal of overtures of peace on any terms of peace except absolute surrender. The men feel that they have broken the enemy's strength after tremendous effort and hardships and the loss of many comrades, and they demand the utter extinction of the Boer republics.

EDUCATIONAL VALUE OF TRAVEL

President Winston to Take His Boys Over the State.

News and Observer.

President Winston, of the Agricultural and Mechanical College, is a believer in the educational value of travel. Along with book-learning he thinks there should go a bit of experience, a touch of men and affairs.

To put this doctrine into practice as much as possible with his own students Dr. Winston is arranging for them a series of trips—inexpensive, but of educational value—to the different parts of the state.

The first one will probably be to the Newcern Fair on April 16th. Here will be seen the eastern section of the State, its people and its products.

The next trip will be either to Gen. Julian S. Carr's Occonneechee Farm, near Hillsboro, or to Mr. George W. Vanderbilt's farm at Biltmore. For they will see the western part of the State and study it.

To make the visit to his farm an interesting one, Mr. Vanderbilt has offered $50 in prizes to be distributed as follows; (1) Fifteen dollars to the best judge of cattle; (2) Ten dollars to second best judge of cattle; (3) Fifteen dollars to best judge of swine; (4) Ten dollars to second best jubge of swine. These prizes will be in form of gold coin or silver cups, as the students may prefer.

Still another trip proposed is to Southern Pines and Pinehurt where the lumber and naval store industry of the State may be seen and fruit-growing studied.

"It is pretty certain that we will go" said Dr. Winston yesterday, "though of course all these trips depend to a great extent on our getting rates. But of that I have no doubt. The railroads have always been most indulgent and liberal with schools in such matters, and on this point I contemplate no trouble.

"My plan is to take the whole battalion, some 200 students, with the band. The exact date and details of the trips have not been arranged, but we will probably be gone two or three days on each trip. Mr. Vanderbilt promises to furnish tents for the boys if they wish to camp out while at Biltmore."

Seven and Thirty-Three

The time has passed when you were young and free,
When you were seven and I was thirty-three.
Your form is tall, your laughing face is grave
With lines of care no mother's love could save,
But as I look again into the past
And see that old-time spirit—spent at last—
I wish the hour again could come to me
When you were seven and I was thirty-three.
We both feel young as in the days of yore,
But fifty-eight now walks with eighty-four!
My eyes are dim, my hair is white as snow;
Your hair, my darling, threads of gray doth show.
But love is in your heart—that same dear love—
God's gifts from Heaven, your dower from above,
My daughter, mother loves you even more,
Fifty-eight sustains weak eighty-four.

IMPORTANT TO VIRGINIANS.

The Virginians are on the eve of having some trouble of their own on a proposition to call a constitutional convention. It seems that the democrats are quite divided upon the subject. At a recent session of the Norfolk county executive committee, the following paper was circulated:

IMPORTANT TO VIRGINIANS!

If a constitutional convention is called, it will endanger the position of every county and city official in the state, besides occasioning a state of great uncertainty to every interest involved. You may start this convention, but no man can tell where it will stop. See to it that delegates are elected to the democratic state convention, which assembles at Norfolk May 2nd, 1900, who will vote against making the convention a party issue.

Which quite stirs up the staunch old Richmond Times and leads it to say smartly:

This is, indeed, "important to Virginians." It is important to Virginians that the constitutional convention shall be held, and important for them to know that some of the office holders are opposing it. It is important to Virginians to make the issue right now and decide as to whether Virginia is run by the people or the office-holders.

This is indeed an important matter to Virginians, if it is true, as the Times intimates, that there is danger of the office holders running the state. The paper quoted from welcomes the proposition for a constitutional convention in the belief that it would produce at least an opposition party at least of respectable enough size to keep the democratic party straight. In developing this idea the times enunciates this very wholesome doctrine:

It is Virginia's great misfortune that there is but one political party in this state, although it is to the great credit of the democratic party, that having been in full sway for fifteen years, our affairs of government are, generally speaking, in such good condition. There has been but little in the way of mischievous legislation, there have been few public scandals, the public credit has been maintained, and as for faithfulness, honesty and efficiency in the public service, we think that Virginia can compare favorably with any other state in the Union.

But for all that there should be a respectable minority party of sufficient strength at least to keep the democratic party afraid. We have frequently said in discussing national politics that the national democratic party has done a great service as a minority party, in keeping the republican party in check and making it behave itself It would be well for Virginia if there were a minority party here to exercise a similar influence over the democratic party of Virginia. If the rule of this party is never disputed the leaders of the party will become more and more arrogant; and arrogance unrestrained is sure to lead to corruption.

Practically the same thing may be said of North Carolina, and in saying this we do not mean to say that the democratic party in this state has ever been corrupt, for it has not; indeed the fact that it did not become so during its long lease of unlimited power is the highest testimony to the integrity of its leaders. But there is one thing true of it, which sustains our application of the Times' statement to this state, and that is that the democratic party here, preceding the vigorous opposition of the last decade, while perfectly pure, was dying with dry rot, and fast stagnating and losing its life and vigor, excepting the internal struggle of its members for the party's nominations. A party worth anything to a state must be a fighting party, and that is the good which defeat has accomplished for the democratic party in North Carolina. It has rejuvenated it.

VACCINATION THE PREVENTIVE

The citizens of Greensboro need have no fear from the alarming reports of smallpox in Reidsville, although that town is only twenty-five miles from here. The past months of experience with smallpox in North Carolina has taught the people of a number of towns some very costly but valuable lessons. In those towns where the disease was discovered and promptly diagnosed, and the population at once vaccinated, little trouble was had; while the towns that denied its existence and tried to keep it a secret, paid dearly for it.

That vaccination, and vaccination alone, is the only preventive or safe quarantine has been amply proven, and the people of Greensboro may well congratulate themselves that they have gone through this treatment so thoroughly and successfully and wisely.

If the fighting has accomplished anything towards getting Lord Salisbury and President Kruger nearer an agreement their correspondence fails to show it. They started out exactly where they are now, namely, Kruger declaring that the Transvaal government was free, and Lord Salisbury declaring that it was not. This is the first question, evidently, that will have to be settled.

The Telegram does not plume itself on its gifts in prophecy because it said last week that Butler would, in less than two weeks, deny that he refused to stand up for silver when questioned on the floor by Senator Aldrich. He denied it yesterday; which was a little sooner than we expected.

The Texts of the Correspondence Made Known Yesterday—Highly Interesting.

The correspondence between Presidents Steyn and Kruger and Lord Salisbury regarding peace was read in parliament yesterday.

KRUGER TO SALISBURY.

"Bloemfontein, March 5—The blood and the tears of thousands who have suffered by this war and the prospect of all moral and economic ruin wherewith such affair is now threatened make it necessary for both belligerents to ask themselves dispassionately and as in the sight of the Triune God for what are they fighting and whether the aim of each justifies all this appalling misery and devastation. With this object and in view of the assertions of various British statesmen to the effect that this war was begun and is being carried on with the set purpose of undermining her majesty's authority in South Africa and of setting up an administration over all of South Africa independent of her majesty's authority we consider it our duty to solemnly declare that this war was undertaken solely as a defensive measure to maintain the threatened contestible independence of the South African Republic and is only continued in order to secure and maintain the independence of both republics as sovereign international states and to obtain the assurance that those of her majesty's subjects who have taken part with us in this war shall suffer no harm whatever in person or property. On these conditions, but on these conditions alone, are we now, as in the past, desirous of seeing peace re-established in South Africa; while, if Her Majesty's government is determined to destroy the independence of the republics, there is nothing left to us and to our people but to persevere to the end in the course already begun. In spite of the overwhelming pre-eminence of the British empire we are confident that that God who lighted the unextinguished fire of love of freedom in the hearts of ourselves and of our fathers will not forsake us and will accomplish His work in us and in our descendants. We hesitated to make this declaration earlier to your excellency as we feared that as long as the advantage was always on our side and as long as our forces held defensive positions far within Her Majesty's colonies such declaration might hurt the feelings and honor of British people. But now that that the prestige of the British Empire may be considered assured by the capture of one of our forces by Her Majesty's troops and that we have thereby been forced to evacuate other positions which our forces had occupied, that difficulty is over and we can no longer hesitate to clearly inform your government and people in the sight of the whole civilized world, why we are fighting and on what conditions we are ready to restore peace."

LORD SALISBURY'S REPLY.

The Marquis of Salisbury to the presidents of the South African Republic and the Orange Free State:

"Foreign Office, Mach 11—I have the honor to acknowledge you honor's telegram, dated March 5th from Bloemfontein, of which the purport is principally to demand that her Majesty's Government shall recognize the 'contestable independence' of the South African Republic and Free State as 'sovereign international states' and to offer on those terms to bring the war to a conclusion.

"In the beginning of October last peace existed between her Majesty and the two republics under conventions which then were existent. A discussion had been proceeding for some months between her Majesty's Government and the South African Republic, of which the object was to obtain redress for certain very serious grievances under which the British residents in South Africa were suffering. In the course of these negotiations the South African Republic had, to the knowledge of Her Majesty's Government, made considerable armaments, and the latter had consequently taken steps to provide corresponding reinforcements of the British garrisons at Cape Town and in Natal. No infringement of the rights guaranteed by the conventions had up to that point, taken place on the British side. Suddenly, at two days notice, the South African Republic, after issuing an insulting ultimatum, declared war upon Her Majesty; and the Orange Free State, with whow there had not been even any discussion, took a similar step. Her Majesty's dominions were immediately invaded by the republics. Siege was laid to three towns within the British frontier, a large portion of two colonies were overrun with great destruction of property and life, and the republics claimed to treat the inhabitants of extensive portions of Her Majesty's dominions as if those dominions had been annexed to one or the other of them. In anticipation of these operations the South African Republic had been accumulating for many years past military stores on an enormous scale, which by their character could only have been intended for use against Great Britain.

"Your honors make some observations of a negative character upon the object with which these preparations were made. I do not think it necessary to discuss the questions you have raised. But the result of these preparations, carried on with great secrecy has been that the British Empire has been compelled to confront an invasion which has called upon the empire a costly war and the loss of thousands of precious lives. This great calamity has been the penalty Great Britain has suffered for having of recent years acquiesced in the existence of the two republics. In view of the use to which the two republics have put the position which was given them and the calamities their unprovoked attack have inflicted on her majesty's dominions, her majesty's government can only answer your honors' telegram by saying that they are not prepared to assent to the independence either of the South African Republic or of the Orange Free State."

An Editor's Life Saved by Chamberlain's Cough Remdy.

During the early part of October, 1896, I contracted a bad cold, which settled on my lungs and was neglected until I feared that consumption had appeared in an incipient state. I was constantly coughing and trying to expel something which I could not. I became alarmed and after giving the local doctor a trial bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and the result was immediate improvement, and after I had used three bottles my lungs were restored to their healthy state.—B. STRIKING A MATCH.

Showing How Little Things May at Times Decide a Man's Fortune.

The truth of the saying that little things may oftentimes play an important part to men's affairs when the men least expect it was illustrated one day recently.

"See that young man over there," remarked an insurance friend of his, pointing to one of his clerks working away industriously at a desk in another room. "Well, he got his place in my office through the striking of a match, although he doesn't know it.

"I was standing at the entrance of this building about a month ago waiting for a friend to come down the elevator, when that young man approached me with a letter of recommendation and an application for employment. I had made it known a few days before that I needed another clerk, and he had heard of it. However, I had almost made up my mind to take on a young man who had been to see me the day before and was about to tell the last applicant so, when he pulled a match from one of his pockets to light a cigar he had been smoking, but which had gone out.

"'Sorry, sir,' he said, balancing himself on one foot, while he lifted the other so as to admit of his striking the match on the heel of his shoe. 'Sorry, for I would like very much to work for you, and I think I would have made you a good clerk.'

"The match striking incident made me think so too. Right at the young man's elbow was a great Italian marble column upon which were the marks showing where many matches had been struck by vandals too utterly indifferent to the rights of others to refrain from indelibly stamping their vandalism upon property to restore which would have cost hundreds of dollars. It would have been the most natural thing in the world for many a man to have scratched that match on the marble column, and the fact that this young man chose to use the heel of his shoe instead showed that he was thoughtful and conscientious, two very excellent traits. I was so impressed that I told him to come and see me, and the result of the visit was his securing the position. And his month in my office has shown that I made no mistake in sizing him up."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

EXCHANGED OVERCOATS.

At First by Accident and Then to Rectify the Error.

"Queer things have happened to me in Chicago," said the rubber goods man, "but perhaps the queerest of all was the way I lost and found my overcoat last winter. It was all the fault of the check boy. He gave me out what I took to be my coat as I was ready to go to the depot. It fitted me all right, and so did the gloves in the pocket. It was not until I boarded the train that I found some letters which proved that I had the wrong coat. I had a lower berth for Detroit. The upper berth passenger came in after a bit, and as he sat down he said:

"'Well, I thought I would get out of Chicago this time without anything happening, but I'm disappointed. Through some hocus pocus or other I've lost my overcoat—that is, I've made an exchange with some one.'

"'Just my case,' I replied.

"'Where did you stop?'

"'At the Auditorium.'

"'So did I.'

"Well, he had my coat, and I had his," continued the rubber goods man, "and it took only a minute to effect the exchange. We were both bound for Detroit, both intended to put up at the same hotel and both had business with the same firm. It was a queer thing, taken all around, but, as I said at the beginning, there is no place like Chicago for surprises. A year ago I was hurrying along State street with the crowd when I ran plump into a man whom I had left for dead in Mexico three years before, and the first words he spoke was to tell me he was hard up and dun me for $5 I owed him!"—Washington Post.

First Negro Minstrels.

The first negro minstrel troupe appeared in the United States about 1845. They were real negroes, led by a man named Johnson, and the melody which gained them great applause was named "That Old Gray Goose." The words ran, "Oh, don't you see that old gray goose a-lookin at the gander?" This was sung by the tenor voice, and the chorus ran in parts to the words "Where," "Here," "I hear," and then a ringing chorus. Another of their part songs was "Oh, Mamma, I Must Be Married to Mr. Punchinello," different voices singing "Who Mr. Punch?" "Who Mr. Nell?" "Who Mr. Lo?" "Who Mr. Punchinello?"

Jim Was Ahead.

"It's strange," said the trolley conductor, "how, when two boys start out with equal chances, one of them is bound to forge ahead while the other lags behind. There was Jim. Jim and I were fast friends as youths, but look at me now! Equal as our chances were, Jim is ahead"—

"What is he doing?" asked the passenger who had paid his fare.

"He's the motorman up front. Did I get your nickel?" Bang! Clatter! "Edmund place!" Bang! Clatter! Ting-a-ling! "Yes, sir; it's strange!"—Detroit Free Press.

SCROFULA AND ITS AWFUL HORRORS

Johnston's Sarsaparilla

QUART BOTTLES.

A MOST WONDERFUL CURE.

A Grand Old Lady Gives Her Experience.

Mrs. Thankful Orilla Hurd lives in the beautiful village of Brighton, Livingston Co., Mich. This venerable and highly respected lady was born in the year 1812, the year of the great war, in Hebron, Washington Co., New York. She came to Michigan in 1840, the year of "Tippecanoe and Tyler too." All her faculties are excellently preserved, and possessing a very retentive memory, her mind is full of interesting reminiscences of her early life, of the early days of the State of Michigan and the interesting and remarkable people she has met, and the stirring events of which she was a witness. But nothing in her varied and manifold recollections are more marvelous and worthy of attention than are her experiences in the use of JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA. Mrs. Hurd inherited a tendency and predisposition to scrofula, that terribly destructive blood taint which has cursed and is cursing the lives of thousands and marking thousands more as victims of the death angel. Transmitted from generation to generation, it is found in nearly every family in one form or another. It may make its appearance in dreadful running sores, in unsightly swellings in the neck or goitre, or in eruptions of varied forms. Attacking the mucous membrane, it may be known as catarrh in the head, or developing in the lungs it may be, and often is, the prime cause of consumption.

Speaking of her case, Mrs. Hurd says: "I was troubled for many years with a bad skin disease. My arms and limbs would break out in a mass of sores, discharging yellow matter. My neck began to swell and became very unsightly in appearance. My body was covered with scrofulous eruptions. My eyes were also greatly inflamed and weakened, and they pained me very much. My blood was in a very bad condition and my head ached severely at frequent intervals, and I had no appetite. I had sores also in my ears. I was in a miserable condition, I had tried every remedy that had been recommended, and doctor after doctor had failed. One of the best physicians in the state told me I must die of scrofulous consumption, as internal abcesses were beginning to form. I at length was told of Dr. Johnston, of Detroit, and his famous Sarsaparilla. I tried a bottle, more as an experiment than anything else, as I had no faith in it, and greatly to my agreeable surprise, I began to grow better. You can be sure I kept on taking it. I took a great many bottles. But I steadily improved until I became entirely well. All the sores healed up, all the bad symptoms disappeared. I gained perfect health, and I have never been troubled with scrofula since. Of course an old lady of 83 years is not a young woman, but I have had remarkably good health since then, and I firmly believe that JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA is the greatest blood purifier and the best medicine in the wide world, both for scrofula and as a spring medicine." This remarkably interesting old lady did not lok to be more than sixty, and she repeated several times, "I believe my life was saved by JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA."

PLUM TOBACCO

Baby's coming should be a time of joy and happiness. Fear should be forgotten and pain a stranger.

How often is it so?

As the time approaches how often the poor expectant mother is nerve-racked and pain-ridden — fearing and almost suffering death.

It isn't right. Nature never meant it to be so. If the mother were strong and well in a womanly way, as she ought to be, there would be no danger and little pain.

The time of parturition is made comfortable and safe by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a medicine designed by a skilled physician —a specialist in the diseases and diseases of women—for the express and only purpose of putting the whole womanly system into perfect, vigorous health. It works directly on the organs involved in baby's advent and makes them strong, healthful and flexible. Taken during the whole period of gestation it insures the perfect health of both mother and child.

Mrs. Mollie E. Grimes, of Flomaton, Escambia Co., Ala., writes: "I have taken three bottles of your 'Favorite Prescription' and one bottle of your little 'Pellets' and oh, what an appetite they did give me. My baby is now three months old and weighs fifteen pounds and a half. When she was born she was the fattest little baby girl you ever saw. She was the largest one of all my babies and at the birth I had an easier and shorter time than I ever had. I am stouter and healthier than I ever was. I never will be without your medicine. May God bless you and your good medicines."

For obstinate constipation Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the most perfect medicine ever devised. They give prompt, comfortable, permanent relief.

Softleigh—"I am very much worried about myself." Miss Caustique—"Yes, I've noticed that you have a tendency to worry over nothing."

FREE OF CHARGE.

Any adult suffering from a cold settled on the breast, bronchitis, throat or lung troubles of any nature, who will call at Grissom & Fordham's will be presented with a sample bottle of Boschee's German Syrup, free of charge. Only one bottle given to one person, and none to children without order from parents. No throat or lung remedy ever had such a sale as Boschee's German Syrup in all parts of the civilized world. Twenty years ago millions of bottles were given away, and your druggist will tell you its success was marvelous. It is really the only throat and lung trouble generally endorsed by physicians. Only 75-cent bottle will cure or prove its value. Sold by dealers in all civilized countries.

Some men's idea of solid comfort is liquid comfort.

A LIFE AND DEATH FIGHT

Mr. W. A. Hines, of Manchester, Iowa, writing of his almost miraculous escape from death says: "Exposure after measles induced serious lung trouble, which ended in consumption. I had frequent hemorrhages and coughed night and day. All my doctors said I must soon die. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which completely cured me. I would not be without it even it cost $5 a bottle. Hundreds have used it on my recommendation and all say it never fails to cure throat, chest and lung troubles." Regular size 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottles free at C. E. Holton's drug store.

The successful man never begrudges the cost of experience.

J. I. Bevry Loganton, Pa., writes I am willing to take my oath I that was cured of pneumonia entirely by the use of One Minute Cough Cure entirely after doctors failed. It also cured my children of whooping cough." Quickly relieves and cures coughs, colds, croup, grippe and throat and lung troubles. Children all like it. Mothers endorse it. Howard Gardner.

It doesn't take a double-jointed man to pat himself on the back.

Rev. E. W. Sitzer, W. Caton, N Y., writes: "I had dyspepsia over twenty years, and tried doctors and medicines without benefit. I was persuaded to use Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and it helped me from the start. I believe it to be a panacea for all forms of indigestion." It digests what you eat. Howard Gardner.

One Minute Cough Cure, cures

THE LOWER SHELF.

When from the chatter I retire
And close my study door behind,
A chair is wheeled before the fire—
A thoughtful hand has drawn the blind.
Then o'er the shelves I range my eye,
Where volumes mix with pipes and delf,
The stately pompous fellows—high;
The ragged—on the lower shelf.

They line my study's narrow wall,
These friends to whom for rest I come,
I cannot say I know them all,
But this I'll swear—I worship some.
And would you know the gods I serve
With love that's well nigh worthy self,
Glance, stranger, o'er the shabby curve
That bulges on the lower shelf.

You mount a somewhat shaky chair;
You point to princely tomes above,
With, "This is fine!" and "This is rare!"
But where's the book a man can love?
Ah, leave the grand ones, I beseech!
They do but conjure thoughts of pelf,
While these untidy beggars reach
To heaven from the lower shelf.

A CURIOSITY OF ALASKA.

Beaches Formed by Driftwood From All Over the World.

One of the greatest curiosities noted by travelers in Alaska is the wonderful haven of driftwood on the coast between Yakatag and Kyak islands, some 1,200 or 1,500 miles northeast from Seattle. The constant deposit of logs and driftwood in this particular spot, which has been going on for hundreds, perhaps thousands, of years, is due to the phenomena of the tides, the Pacific gulf stream, the mysterious ocean currents and the peculiar formation of the shore lines at that point.

Logs and timbers are readily identified there as having come from Japan, China, India and other parts of Asia, as well as from California, Washington and other parts of the American continent. There are fine logs of the camphor tree, the mahogany, the redwood and the pine in this driftage. Some of those from the state of Washington contain the names of the men who felled the trees and of the sawmills for which they were destined, but never reached. Logs eight feet in diameter are in this novel woodyard, and some entire trees 150 feet long are there, uplifted by the roots, cast into the sea by some terrible tempest and sent floating round the world. Other persons on the beach descry big trees floating shoreward, with fantastic roots above the waves like some sea monster. One beach after another has been formed by the floating timbers, and a little distance back from the shore the deposits are so old that the wood in some places is petrified, while a little deeper in the earth it has turned into coal. The newer logs are without bark and as hard as stone, due, it is thought, to their long immersion in salt water. They have all taken on a whitish appearance. In places the timbers are piled 20 feet high; at other points they rise to a height of only four or five feet.

Under this wonderful beach are found large quantities of dark, ruby sand, rich in fine particles of gold, for the separation of which no successful process has yet been discovered.—Chicago Times-Herald.

What Is a Sleeper?

Here is a definition which is as difficult to read rapidly as "Peter Piper picked a peck of pickled peppers" and yet is more sensible. In fact, it is an actual statement of facts, as you will find if you read it slowly:

A sleeper is one who sleeps. A sleeper is that in which a sleeper sleeps. A sleeper is that on which the sleeper runs while the sleeper sleeps. Therefore while the sleeper sleeps in the sleeper the sleeper carries the sleeper over the sleeper under the sleeper until the sleeper which carries the sleeper jumps the sleeper and wakes the sleeper in the sleeper by striking the sleeper under the sleeper on the sleeper, and there is no longer any sleeper sleeping in the sleeper on the sleeper.

The Best Medicine For Rheumatism

"I think I would go crazy with pain were it not for Chamberlain's Pain Balm," writes Mr. W. H. Stapleton, Hermanie, Pa. "I have been afflicted with rheumatism for several years and have tried remedies without number, but Pain Balm is the best medicine I have got hold of." One application relieves the pain. No, Maude, dear, we have not heard that the egg plant would take the place of the Easter lily this year.

Mrs. Calvin Zimmerman, Milesburg, Pa., says: "As a speedy cure for coughs, colds, croup and sore throat One Minute Cough Cure is unequalled. It is pleasant for children to take. I heartily recommend it to mothers." It is the only harmless remedy that produces immediate results. It cures bronchitis, pneumonia, grippe and lung diseases. It will prevent consumption Howard Gardner.

"Nice day," began the talkative barber. "It seems rather muggy in here," replied the victim, as he glanced toward the shelves.

Value of Consulships.

"ng man," said a noted Illinois congressman in the house restaurant at the capitol, "when you get a chance to be a consul for the United States select a smoky city, one where there are many factory chimneys. Do not try for the fashionable capitals. Leave them for the embassadors. Go where the air is murky, for there business is lively, and many a consignment is sent to the United States. This means fees, and fees mean a good income for the consul."

In the course of his chat the congressman made the general statement that consuls who are making the most money from fees are the quietest, most unassuming, uncomplaining employees of the government. "They do not set up claims for a salary instead of fees," he said. "Oh, no; but like the wise boy where the raspberries are thick they let the world forget, so far as possible, that they are on earth. Let a consular office be changed from the fee to the salary system, and it at once becomes alluring to a voracious lot of aspirants. Some one finds out perhaps that the political support of this particular consul is weak, and then influence is used, and soon there is a change.

"One of the most profitable consulships is that of Liverpool. The salary is $6,000, but the fees bring the emoluments up to several times that amount, and a generation ago the income of the consul at Liverpool was $50,000 a year. This has been reduced by abolishing fees."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

The Kentucky Mountaineers.

There are no more strikingly interesting people in America than these isolated mountaineers, who make their homes generation after generation among the fastnesses of the eastern section of the "dark and bloody ground." The waves of civilization which swept westward along the St. Lawrence, the Erie canal and a dozen other routes seem to have found at this point in the Appalachians an insurmountable barrier and rolled back, leaving the descendants of the pioneers of a century and a half ago with many of the same habits and customs and traditions dear to the hearts of their forefathers.

A man who knows the whole country as a child does his first picture book told me that if any person took the trouble to go through a copy of Shakespeare and pick out all the obsolete words he would find nearly all of them in common use among these mountain folk. In their phraseology we find "holp" for "help," "hit" for "it" and other words which, far from being corruptions, are the pure old Anglo-Saxon. Even their ballads are memories of ages gone by, and I know of one man who, after riding 200 miles through the mountains for the purpose, finally picked up, from hearing the women sing them, the full 13 verses of an old Scotch ballad which proved to be identical with those recorded in a diary bearing the date 1665.—International Magazine.

Prayer of a Soubrette.

The people who live in stageland have the strangest ways. I sat in a box in one of the theaters one evening and I could see into the wings on the "prompt" side of the stage. A comic opera was on, and I saw one of the leading women come and take her stand there in the wings, waiting for her cue. I could see her quite plainly, and I watched her with curiosity, wondering if she were not cold in the tights and thin gauze of her scant costume.

The comedian began the long speech, the last word of which was to call her on. She bowed her head, her lips moved, and thrice she made the sign of the cross with a devoutness which left no room for doubt that she was actually praying. An instant later she had frisked out on the stage with a laugh and a dance step and a wink that was anything but pious. Nobody seeing her could have dreamed that just the moment before she was actually praying—praying for guidance in her work, praying for strength to succeed, as earnestly and with just as much faith and reverence as if she—well, as if she were anything in the world but a dancing girl in a comic opera.—Washington Post.

Speech and Ambidexterity.

"Here's a scientist," she said, looking up from the paper, "who asserts that the reason people are right handed is that the motor speech function controls the right side of the body and consequently right handedness grows with speech."

"Is that so?" he returned, deeply interested. "It is indeed strange, then, that many women can use their left hands at all, is it not?"—Chicago Post.

Making the Best of It.

"Will you have this here woman to be your lawful wedded wife?"

"That's what I 'lowed I would!"

"Will you love, honor and obey her?"

"Ain't you got that switched roun', parson?" said the groom.

"John," said the bride elect, "don't you reckon the parson knows his business? Answer the question!"

"Yes," said the groom, "I reckon I'll have to!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Doctors Can't Cure It!

Contagious blood poison is absolutely beyond the skill of the doctors. They may dose a patient for years on their mercurial and potash remedies, but he will never be rid of the disease; on the other hand, his condition will grow steadily worse. S. S. S. is the only cure for this terrible affliction, because it is the only remedy which goes direct to the cause of the disease and forces it from the system.

I was afflicted with Blood Poison, and the best doctors did me no good, though I took their treatment faithfully. In fact, I seemed to get worse all the while. I took almost every so-called blood remedy, but they did not seem to reach the disease, and had no effect whatever. I was disheartened, for it seemed that I would never be cured. At the advice of a friend I then took S. S. S., and began to improve. I continued the medicine, and it cured me completely, building up my health and increasing my appetite. Although this was ten years ago, I have never yet had a sign of the disease to return.

WINE OF CARDUI

Woman Knows Woman.

ZURICH, KAN., Jan. 31.

I used Wine of Cardui for nervousness and weakness in the womb. After taking one bottle I was well again. I am a midwife and always recommend Wine of Cardui to my lady friends during pregnancy and after birth as a tonic. Every lady who takes it finds that it does even more than is claimed for it.

MRS. V. M. BOISVERT.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

Nobody knows woman like woman. Men go to medical colleges, study books and listen to lectures. They learn indirectly of the diseases of women, but they are men and can never fully understand the ailments, the sufferings, the agonies of mothers, wives and sisters. A woman knows. Mrs. Boisvert knows. She has passed through the trials and tribulations of her sex. She has been near by when her sisters suffered. She has seen them relieved and cured with Wine of Cardui. Is it any wonder she recommends it? Is it any wonder that thousands of other women recommend it. They know. They have actual experience to prompt them. They spread the tidings from mouth to mouth, telling how Wine of Cardui helps young girls, helps the weak of all ages, helps and cures all womanly ills.

SITUATION BECOMES ALARMING.

SAID TO BE MANY CASES OF SMALLPOX IN REIDSVILLE.

Greensboro Aldermen Meet Today to Consider Quarantining But Postpone Action Till Tomorrow.

The situation which now prevails in our neighboring town, Reidsville, was narrowly averted in Greensboro. The difficulty which has caused the spread of smallpox there is exactly the same as that which confronted this city at the outbreak of the disease here—a difference of opinion among the doctors, some claiming it to be chickenpox, and others smallpox. The result is that the smallpox, according to reports which appear reliable, now has control of Reidsville. It is claimed there are between one hundred and fifty and two hundred cases there and that there have been some deaths. There are said to be many cases among the employes of Edna Cotton Mills, and that one of the deaths reported was a cotton mill operative.

It will be seen from the above, and there is little reason to doubt the truth of it, that the situation there is alarming, and that the most heroic measures will have to be quickly inaugurated to save Reidsville from a dreadful calamity. The experience just passed through in this city proves that smalipox is a disease easily controlled if taken hold of in time. The authorities here settled the dispute between the physicians by sending for a government expert, and acting upon his diagnosis, "took the bull by the horns," so to speak. Starting in with a legacy of about thirty cases the number steadily decreased, until there are only three left and the total number is not over one-third as many as are now reported in Reidsville. Vaccinate, isolate, disinfect, were the watchwords and they have been plied with diligence.

Dr. Newton, of Richmond, has been employed by the Reidsville authorities to take charge of the matter there. Dr. Edmond Harrison, who has so faithfully, energetically and effectively handled the disease here, accompanied Dr. Newton to Reidsville this morning to give him the benefit of his experience in starting the work of stamping out the disease there.

The board of aldermen of Greensboro was called together today in special session to consider the suggestion of quarantining against Reidsville. After some discussion the board adjourned until eleven o'clock tomorrow, awaiting the return of Dr. Harrison in order to get an accurate report of the true condition of things in Reidsville. The work of vaccination has been most thorough in this city and the figures prove that it is a great protection, as among the cases of smallpox here there was only one who had ever been vaccinated. Thus it is seen we are well protected. The effectiveness of the kind of quarantine we would be able to establish is an open question, and there are doubts as to the wisdom of attempting it. It will be remembered that some of our people criticised Durham for quarantining against Greensboro, and Chatham's quarantine against Guilford county got to be such a laughing stock that the guards were withdrawn from the stations over two weeks before the quarantine was officially raised by the commissioners.

THE DISPENSARY STANDS.

Decision of Lower Court Reaffirmed Yesterday.

In the case of Garsed against Greensboro, involving the act under which the Greensboro dispensary is operated, the decision of the Supreme court was yesterday handed down as follows:

"'The dispensary system' does not create an unlawful monopoly in violation of section 31, article 1, of the state constitution. Guy vs. Commissioners, 131 N. C., 471. Section 5, chapter 264, laws 1899, authorizing the board of aldermen of Greensboro to appropriate an amount of not exceeding $32,000 as a loan for the establishment of the dispensary provided for in said act is in violation of section 7, article 17, of the constitution, the appropriation not being "necessary expense" of the city government, but the unconstitutional provision does not render the whole act void. Bennett vs. Commissioners, 125 N. C., 488. Where the act of the Legislature providing for the sale of spirituous liquors in a city confers the appointment of members of the "dispensary" board upon the board of aldermen of the city, with power in the aldermen to receive and pass upon the bonds of secretary and treasurer of the "dispensary," and providing for removals from the dispensary board by the resident judge of the district, the dispensary board are not in such case agents of the city, but are agents of the state; and said act is construed as an amendment to the city's charter. Although the defendant city of Greensboro averred its purpose not to make a loan to the dispensary board, as provided for in the act, the trial judge committed no error restraining the city from opening the dispensary and from contracting debts, pledging its faith to that end.

Next to the Consumer is where we stand in the lumber business. At the kicking post, as it were, in regard to prices.

First comes the owner of the timber. He just woke up to the value of it and wants double last year's prices. Then the sawmill man. He has not been making a fortune and thinks now he should share a little in the general prosperity.

They say to us: "We must have so much for our trees and work." After a while it is "up to you." Don't kick. You don't suppose we have nerve enough to put up prices unless they had first been put up on us. No, indeed. But prices are NOT high. They have been to low and are just now getting reasonable. Your children will be glad to build at double the price is now costs you. It is a trite, but true saying, if you want to build, "Now is the time."

And ours is the place to get the stuff.

CROWDS and LOW PRICES.

Two things invariably attract attention—crowds and low prices. The first proposition always results from the last—and that accounts for the great stream of humanity that seems to fill almost every inch of our store space daily. Men read the news; women read the advertisements, especially the "bargain numbers." If it is bargains you are looking for, look no further. Here they are:
